

We hear you

"You're doing the people a disservice"

What's the big idea of moving out of town? I don't like the idea of having our local newspaper office in Los Gatos.

Upset

What are we going to have now, a Los Gatos paper? I don't think I want to read a paper like that.

Long Time Reader

I think it's a big mistake moving to another city. It won't be the same. I won't be able to drop by the office like I use to.

Another Voice

We feel like we're orphans. Imagine a city like Campbell not having its own office.

Opposed to Move

In my opinion it does the city and the people in it a big disservice (moving the office). I, for one am opposed.

Old Timer

Editor's note: So far, opinion is unanimous. Everyone's unhappy about the move. The Campbell PRESS will continue to cover local events and is not being combined with another paper. Our editorial office is now in Los Gatos and, temporarily, news releases and items for the paper can be dropped off at the old 35 Dillon ave. office. The new mailing address is Box 128, Campbell, 95008 and if you want to drop by for a chat, the new office is at 114 Royce st., Los Gatos, a few minutes away. By the way, our front page story last week gave the wrong phone number. It's 354-3900. Give us a call.

I'm interested in signing that petition against pornography. Where can I find one?

John Hancock

Editor's note: One petition is available at the Campbell Chamber of Commerce office, 328 E. Campbell ave. Another is available for signing at the St. Lucy's Catholic church office, 2350 Winchester blvd., from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Deadline for collecting names for the statewide initiative is August 8. The initiative would give local cities and counties the power to regulate such businesses as adult theaters, adult book stores, etc.

Any gripes, kudos, suggestions? Call 354-3900 to sound off.

THE AUDIENCE at Monroe School last Wednesday night had some pointed questions for Campbell elementary school trustees and administrators in the wake of proposed cutbacks including busing, summer school, after school sports and the elementary music program. A second session was held last night and final adoption of the budget is set for Thursday, August 31.

World record shattered by local man

By VICKI JOHNSEN

JEFF BLOCK, after dozens of interviews, photo sessions, and crazy questions will be glad to be out of the limelight.

He will also be glad to walk away from the ferris wheel he has spent the last 33 days on with a world's record for ferris wheel riding, $500 for his efforts, plus a valuable assortment of gifts.

Block, 21, a substitute custodian for the Campbell Union School District, said in an interview Monday that although he enjoyed the publicity his endeavor brought him in the beginning, he "will be very glad to get out of the limelight."

"I don't like fame," he explained, "and I'm tired of all the publicity I've received. I just want to go back to work and be my old self."

Block and San Jose girl Rena Clark, 17, broke the world's record July 31 at 10:30 a.m. after going around the Frontier Village ferris wheel 30 straight days.

"We didn't celebrate much," Block reported, "we just blew out some candles on a 31 Flavors ice cream cake."

BLOCK ADDED the real celebration will be when he and Clark get off the ride sometime next week. "We want to hold the record for a while," he said.

Even after 31 days, Block included his favorite amusement park ride is still the ferris wheel. "That's why I've lasted so long," he said.

During Christmas vacation the couple hopes to try for the world's record on a merry-go-round Block said. He noted the current record for that is slightly over 300 hours.

For all the attention, prizes, and money Block has received he noted the experience was "not bad for a month's work."

According to Block, the former ferris wheel record was made during the summer of 1976 by six New Jersey children.

designations is academic at this point. But future developments and annexations will eventually bring this land into the city. Some of the residents don't like that prospect.

Dwight Huffman, 55 Redding road, told officials the "bottom line is that we basically want to be left alone." He said he had contacted his neighbors and all of them want to remain in the county.

Huffman said he and other property owners had been contacted by a local real estate company recently and had been offered cash for their property.

"WE'RE VERY concerned about a power play here," Huffman declared. "Is there any official in the city who has made an agreement (with the realty firm)?" he wanted to know.

Councilmen flatly denied any interest in the area other than reviewing the general plan.

"I rather resent your implication," Mayor Dean Chamberlin noted.

David Moreland, 79 Redding road, wanted to know why, when the city annexes an area, it does not put in curbs and gutters and upgrade the area. He cited the White Oaks road, just south of Bascom avenue as an example.

Councilman Bill Podgorske reported that in 90 per cent of the annexations in the last two or three years, "the people do not want to touch the rural atmosphere."

Councilman Ralph Doetsch asked for a report on the roads on Whiteoaks and Redding as a followup to complaints.

Objecting to proposed changes in area two, on the south side of Redding road, north and south of Shelly road, was Bill Brown, 104 Redding road and S. Eiriksson, 215 Shelly road. A reduction in the general plan of part of area 3, fronting on Bascom avenue was also overturned by the council. John Sperander of San Jose, representing his mother who owns part of that property, spoke against the planned change.

AREA 4, which includes 7.15 acres fronting on Bascom ave. was proposed by the planning commission for professional office and/or medium density residential development.

Speaking against two story or townhouse developments for this area was Mrs. Hamburger, 1198 Holmes ave. Frances Silva, 1194 Holmes ave., said she would prefer low density and single story buildings in the area.

When the two hour hearing was over councilmen voted unanimously to leave areas 1, 2 and 3 "as is" and designate area 4 as professional office, eliminating medium density residential.

Campbell budget pinch

Cutback plan unpopular

A PROPOSAL to eliminate busing of students and close two area schools this fall received the most criticism as Campbell elementary trustees held their public session last Wednesday night. About 130 people attended the session held at Monroe School.

The original proposal to shave $1.5 million from the budget this fall listed over $700,000 in employee salary increases approved earlier and maintenance of salaries. The revised proposal by Superintendent Walt Hauss last Wednesday didn't include these as possible cuts.

Among budget cutbacks still recommended was $250,000 for busing students and the $100,000 savings by closing San Tomas and Sherman Oaks school this September instead of in September of 1979 as originally planned.

Bonnie Chohiach, a Sherman Oaks parent, told trustees she is particularly concerned about the cutback in transportation. There are several areas, she said, where children would have to cross busy thoroughfares to reach school.

HAUSS SAID HE had driven past that area recently and agrees it would be very hazardous for students. In deciding on which busing should be continued, he added, safety will be a primary factor.

Almost half of the students in the Campbell district are now being bused, Assistant Superintendent Ron Rescigno reported. And one alternative the district is studying is charging 10 cents a ride to help defray costs. If possible, that would net the district about $70,000 of the $250,000 price tag for busing.

John Brown, who lives in the San Tomas area, told trustees he feels if they are going to close neighborhood schools they should at least give students some transportation.

"Three and a half miles is too much to walk to school," Brown declared.

ELIMINATION OF all activities and services formerly funded by the community service override tax has been suggested. This includes $24,300 for summer recreation, $88,000 for after school sports, $24,500 for noon duty supervisors and about $2,500 for partial building and grounds maintenance. One woman suggested parents be asked to pay for after school sports.

"We just can't do it," Hauss told the woman. "We have a legal opinion (on the district charging for public education) that we just can't."

The Summer Music Program in the district was continued this year but was transferred to the City of Campbell, who collected fees and administered the program.

Pauline Sales, a Marshall Lane

School parent, wanted to know how much the district would save if the "entire administrative staff took a 5 percent pay cut?" Betty Brannon of the business office said that total was $36,700 but Rescigno added Campbell administrators are among the lowest paid in the county and that staff cutbacks in the last year have shaved about $150,000 off of total costs.

KEN MEINECKE, ASSISTANT superintendent, reported the district will continue to offer special education classes but that these should become self supporting in the next two years. At present the district pays about half the costs.

Another budget session was scheduled by trustees for Wednesday, August 2 at Monroe School with final adoption set for Thursday, August 31 at 7:30 p.m. in the district office, 155 N. Third st.

A HEAD FIRST SLIDE into second base meant the difference between being out or safe for John Griffin of the Los Gatos Little League all-star team. Griffin was safe on this play despite a sweeping tag by Quito Little League all-star second baseman Mike Larsen, and later scored a run for Los Gatos. But it was Quito that came back to claim the 3-victory in the game on their way to the District 12 Little League championship. For more on the District tournament see page 6 of today's PRESS.

Whiteoaks area

Put it back the way it was, residents say

THE MESSAGE from White Oaks area residents to the Campbell City Council was clear last week; put it back the way it was. In this case the "it" is the general plan designation for that area just outside the southern city limits.

And councilmen responded by overturning some earlier recommendations of the planning commission which would have lowered the planned density for the area.

Since the four areas in question are now unincorporated the general plan designations is academic at this point. But future developments and annexations will eventually bring this land into the city. Some of the residents don't like that prospect.

Dwight Huffman, 55 Redding road, told officials the "bottom line is that we basically want to be left alone." He said he had contacted his neighbors and all of them want to remain in the county.

Editor's notebook

Let's hear it for Rufus

By PAT SAFFORD

LAST SATURDAY morning top flight entertainment was offered on the Campbell High School football field. It wasn't a "name" singer, rock group or traveling road show. But the performers were real crowd pleasers and the price was right. It was free.

The Northern California finals for the Canine Catch and Fetch Frisbee Contest played to an audience of about 75 plus 20 or 30 owners and friends. The 10 finalists were impressive.

There was Soloman who took top honors with his ability, Daphne, who showed she knows how to get herself a drink out of a drinking fountain and another contestant who answered the call of nature during the competition and lost valuable time.

But my favorite was Rufus. The contest was to determine how many successful catches of the Frisbee each pooch could make within the two minute time limit. Owners had to hurl the disk a minimum distance (about 75 feet) and dogs were given extra points if the catch was made while all four paws were off the ground.

RUFUS MADE an impressive showing on the "catch" part of the contest. But the large, shaggy dog had a problem with the "fetch."

While other dogs raced back to their masters with the Frisbees and shaved time off the clock, Rufus put his all into catching. And there was substantial bulk in that all. With the catch completed in that 85 degree heat Rufus would assume a nonchalant attitude and walk, leisurely back to his master. Upon the upmost provocation (like his owner grabbing the Frisbee and running with it) Rufus increased his speed . . . to a trot. A slow trot.

After all, it was only a game. And what long-haired dog with any sense would want to be in Long Beach in two weeks, during the hottest part of summer, for the national finals? Not Rufus.

And he doesn't have to worry. Eight of the 10 dogs scored higher.

We hope Rufus gets his just reward. A lazy snooze in the shade of a willow tree at the family home in Napa.

Pockets make a difference

By FLOYD LITTLE

THE OTHER SUNDAY morning I came to breakfast wearing a pair of blue socks. My wife informed me that I didn't want to wear blue socks with brown shoes. She had laid out my wine striped shirt and wine colored trousers, but left me to pick my socks. There seems to be special rules about clothes that I have been unable to fathom.

For the most part over the years, my wife has laid out the clothes that I was to wear, and about all I needed to know was how to work. I spent years learning the difference between a dress shirt and a sport shirt. Finally I learned that the difference is a sport shirt has two pockets and a dress shirt one. It was so simple I wondered why I didn't catch on sooner.

Anyway, the other evening I needed a dress shirt. Armed with my new knowledge, I picked a beautiful dress shirt all by myself. I knew it was a dress shirt because it had only one pocket. The minute I got it on, my wife came by and said "You can't wear that shirt, it's a sport shirt." But it only has one pocket, I protested. "It's the collar, it's a sport shirt, you can't go by the pockets" she informed me.

I HAVE A deep suspicion that all the ladies in the neighborhood know when my wife is away by the way I dress. I remember the time my wife had to be some place early and was to meet me at the church later. Well, she met me at church all right and her eyes and mouth popped open as she informed me that I was wearing my old worn out discarded suit. Another time I showed up at a party wearing one black and one brown shoe.

All these different kind of clothes are a problem. If I go from one kind of work to another I have to change clothes. Some days I think I change clothes more often than a show girl.

Now another thing, after a hard days work I enjoy the nostalgia of looking at my dirty clothes after I pull them off. At least I would enjoy it if I got the chance.

When I come home from a hard days work I go around to the back door and if I'm lucky I get inside the door before I take off my dirty clothes. And if I don't get them off in a hurry my wife grabs hold like a bulldog and helps me. They hardly hit the floor until she grabs them and dashes to the washer which is only fifteen feet away. I double dash to the shower which is thirty feet away, that is if I want any hot water for showering.

My wife thinks I enjoy being down on the farm and really I do. But most of all I enjoy the opportunity of being dirty once in awhile.

Eastfield: A haven for troubled children

By VICKI JOHNSON

BY THE time Andrew was nine years old he had tried to kill himself three times by running in front of cars. His moods fluctuated from extreme depression to rampant rage. He was unpredictable. At one moment he would be playing quietly with his two younger sisters. The next, screaming for no apparent reason.

Andrew's concerned parents brought him to the Eastfield Children's Center in Campbell.

Eastfield, 251 Llewellyn ave., is a private non-profit agency which provides mental health services to emotionally disturbed children and their families.

When Andrew first arrived at Eastfield he and his family met with the staff. Until the troubled child was no longer suicidal he was kept under watch constantly. The staff's job was to break through Andrew's shell and help him realize the world was on his side.

ONE YEAR and one month to the day Andrew was admitted to Eastfield he was released. His home life had been changed to allow more time for outings, activities and family discussions and, for the first time in years, Andrew felt wanted, needed and loved.

Andrew is just one of many who have been cured of emotional disturbances at Eastfield. According to Jerry Doyle, center director, very few ever return. Most youngsters go on to lead normal, productive lives.

Doyle explained that children treated at Eastfield suffer from many disturbances. "Kids may be suicidal, abused, angry, withdrawn or destructive."

Children between the ages of five and 14 are referred by school officials or by parents for treatment. The average age for those at the Campbell center is nine and more boys than girls are treated.

"GIRLS HAVE been taught by society to sit in the corner, behave and be quiet while boys are taught aggression," Doyle explained. "Boys, therefore, are noticed when their aggressive acts get out of control. Girls are usually withdrawn and are merely tagged shy."

Eastfield kids come from ordinary, middle class homes. Most from Santa Clara county.

The center was founded 11 years ago. Originally an orphan asylum, the center was known as the Home of Benevolence of San Jose and was located on a small farm donated by James Lick and Stephen Morey in 1867. By the 1950's community needs had changed so that "home" became Eastfield, a treatment center for troubled children.

Three types of programs are provided: residential, day and outpatient. Thirty-two children live full time on the grounds in residential treatment while 20 more visit the center weekdays. Outpatient help is provided for children and families who leave the program but still require support.

Funding for the center comes from several sources.

"WE ARE a United Way agency," Doyle says, "and also get aid from the government, foundations and from the parents. One of our goals for the future is to become less dependent on government funding and be funded more through foundations, grants and gifts."

Other goals for the center, according to Doyle, include shortening the stay of residential patients (the average is 16 months), spending more time on research, more follow-up studies and contributing to professional literature in the field of child psychology.

Today, 10 years after Andrew left Eastfield, he has entered a Bible college in Southern California. The young man plans to become a youth minister so he can repay some of the help he has received.

THE AIM of Eastfield's is to help youngsters get back to a regular home and school environment. Those under treatment at the local center range in age from 5 to 14 and may stay from a few weeks to 2 or 3 years.

Inglewood trip

Three fire fighters in paramedic training

Three Campbell fire fighters are currently involved in an intensive paramedic training program in Inglewood, near Los Angeles.

Alfred Lutz and Ty Chew of Campbell and Kip Dorsey of Oakland began the program June 26 and will remain in Inglewood until September or October, according to Battalion Chief Tony Pini.

"They're doing really well so far," Pini says. "I went down to visit them last weekend and all three were near the top of the class, which has 25 students."

The program consists of 12 weeks of classroom training and field training with Los Angeles area paramedic teams, according to Pini.

Pini says the firefighters, upon passing the rigorous certification requirements in Los Angeles county, must complete another battery of Santa Clara county tests and log 360 hours of field time before they can be certified here.

The trio is being housed with the Inglewood Fire Department, with the City of Campbell picking up the bill for their room, board and instruction.

Certification of the paramedics-to-be will bring Campbell's total to nine. That total, Pini says, is sufficient to meet the city's needs.

Bottle rocket sparks blaze

By VICKI JOHNSEN

When San Jose school teacher James O'Connor returns home from vacation he will wish he hadn't. On July 24 at 11 p.m. a roof fire destroyed much of the duplex he rented at 2950 Rosemary lane and much of the adjoining residence. The owner of the complex, Ruth Carlsen, was at home during the time the blaze occurred. Because it started on the roof, however, it was unnoticed by anyone for some time. According to Captain Larry Salo, San Jose Fire Department, the fire was caused by an illegal firework, specifically a bottle rocket. There are no suspects yet, he added. Estimated damage of the baze is $20,000. Salo explained the majority of the roof was consumed and the attic gutted. O'Connor's residence suffered severe smoke, heat, and water damage. Salo explained that, in the last two and a half months, 16 structure fires have occurred in San Jose caused by illegal fireworks. Each have had an estimated $500 or more damage, for a total loss of $308,000. Salo added that this figure is double what it was at the same time last year.

Grey panthers moving here

The Santa Clara Grey Panthers, an activist group concerned with age discrimination, will be moving their offices to Campbell soon, a spokesman announced last week.

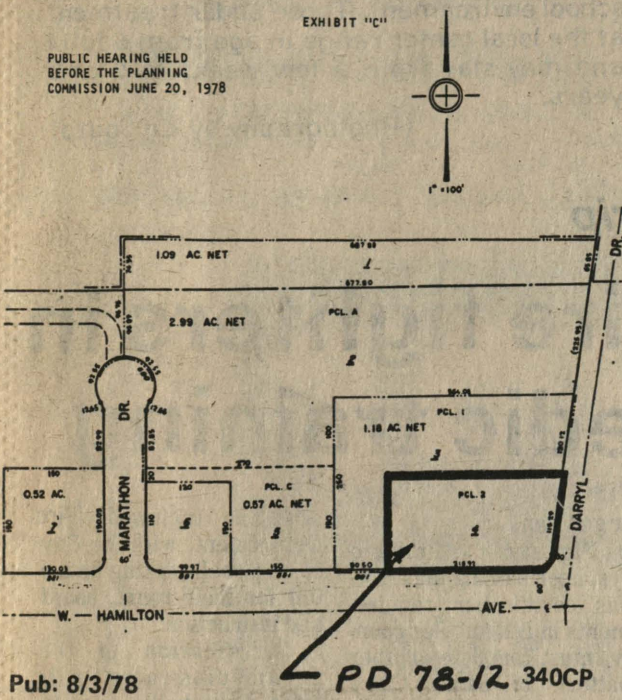

Richard Gregory, a county social worker who heads the group, said the office will be located at 1500 White Oaks drive. A staff of volunteers will work here answering the phone and passing out information. Meetings of the group will continue on the first and third Tuesday monthly at 7 p.m. in the Saratoga Community Center, 19655 Allendale ave., Saratoga.

TOP WINNER in the Canine Catch and Fetch Frisbee state tourney at Campbell High School last Saturday was Soloman, shown with his owner Jim Marinus, 166 Truckee lane, San Jose, who garnered 20 points to go onto the national finals later this month in Southern California. Second place was a tie between Brian Flaherty and Daphne of Napa and Ben Handrick and Mandie of Davis. Locallite Ron Johnston and Jason took third spot and fourth went to Jeff Soto and Benson of Arcata.

New home for Phantasy

Phantasy Theater Company, a professional family theater ensemble which has been touring Bay area schools for the past three years, has found a home at the newly reorganized Santa Clara Arena Theater.

Lee Kopp, producer of Phantasy, is also the company manager of Children's Theater at California Actors Theater at Old Town in Los Gatos. He points out that Phantasy has lost over one hundred bookings because of the cancellations of summer sessions. "Performing at S.C.A.T. will enable us to continue to bring good theater to the children of the community as well as providing a showcase for the Company." The ensemble has expanded its repertoire from their regular school oriented material to entertain the entire family.

Phantasy opened at S.C.A.T. on July 31, and will run the following two Mondays. Then they're off to Oregon for two weeks. "These first three Mondays will tell the tale," says Bill Gorak, Producing Director of S.C.A.T. "If all goes well, Phantasy will be a permanent feature every Monday at S.C.A.T."

S.C.A.T. will offer a special family ticket for Monday evenings. One $10 ticket will cover both parents and their children. Regular tickets are $2.50 and $3.50. Group rates are available. The early curtain of 7:30 on Mondays will make it easier for the whole family to attend. For more information or reservations call 296-SCAT.

3rd time's the charm!

By DICK SPARRER
Sports Editor

IN 23 YEARS, the Quito Little League all-stars have made it to the finals of the District 12 tournament only three times.

Quito lost in its first District championship test and lost again in 1976 1-0 to the Saratoga all-stars on the strength of Jeff Arrillaga's two-hit shut-out and solo home run.

Well, they say the third time's the charm — and it certainly was for Quito when they went up against Saratoga and another Arrillaga last Saturday morning for the District 12 title at the Los Gatos Little League field.

Quito knocked off Saratoga 5-2 in the championship game to win the District 12 flag and earn the right to represent the District at the Section III tournament this week in Mt. View.

The Quito stars were to open Section III play on Tuesday, Aug. 1, in a 5:30 p.m. game against the District 52 champs at McKelvey Park (Park dr. and Miramonte ave.) in Mt. View.

Cupertino-National, a 4-0 winner over the Campbell Little League in the District 44 championship game, was to face the District 57 champ to open the tourney on Monday.

Quito LL captures 1st District title

THE WINNER OF that game will face the winner of the Quito-District 52 game on Friday at 2:30 p.m. at McKelvey in the Sectional semi-final game.

District 39 will face District 9 on Wednesday and District 11 will meet District 59 (Oak Grove) on Thursday and the winners of those games will battle it out at 5:30 p.m. Friday in the second semi-final game.

The championship game will be played on Saturday at 3 p.m. in Mt. View and the Section III champ will then move on to the Division I tournament the following week in Roseville near Sacramento.

Tom Larsen outdueled Saratoga's Brady Arrillaga in the District 12 championship game last weekend to help Quito get a little revenge over their neighbors to the west.

Larsen fired a six-hitter, fanning five and walking just one, to pick up his second win of the tournament. He was touched for a pair of runs in the first but then shut-out Saratoga over the last five frames.

Quito jumped on Arrillaga for three quick runs in the top of the first. Terry Root singled and Larsen walked. Bruce Mitchell doubled in Root and Bill Chavarria singled in Larsen and Mitchell.

QUITO ADDED insurance runs in the fifth and sixth. In the fifth Mitchell reached on an error. He went to second on a ground out and to third on a passed ball before Frank Ochoa walked. The two then pulled off a double steal.

In the sixth, Mike Bongiorno smacked a one-two offering over the left field fence for a home run.

Ochoa also singled in the game to round out the five hit Quito attack.

Quito won the right to meet Saratoga for the District title with a thrilling 3-1 win over Los Gatos in the semi-finals.

A dramatic two run homer by Mark Crawford in the sixth snapped a 1-1 deadlock and lifted Quito to the victory.

Quito scored first in the game with a run in the third but Los Gatos answered back with an unearned run in the bottom of the fourth.

Mitchell, the winning pitcher in the game, singled to right-center for Quito in the sixth and Crawford followed with a first pitch homer way over the fence in left-center field.

CRAWFORD HAD two hits in the game for Quito and Doug Bacho slapped a double. Mitchell and Larsen each singled for the winners.

Mitchell flipped a seven-hitter, fanning five and walking no one, to pick up the win.

Quito opened the tournament with a lopsided 12-2 win over the Cambrian all-stars. Larsen was the winning pitcher in that one, firing a five-hitter. He walked just two and struck out 11.

And eight run fifth inning turned the close game into a rout.

Bacho led the bat attack, ripping four hits in four trips, including a double. Chavarria was two for four with a triple and Root doubled in the win.

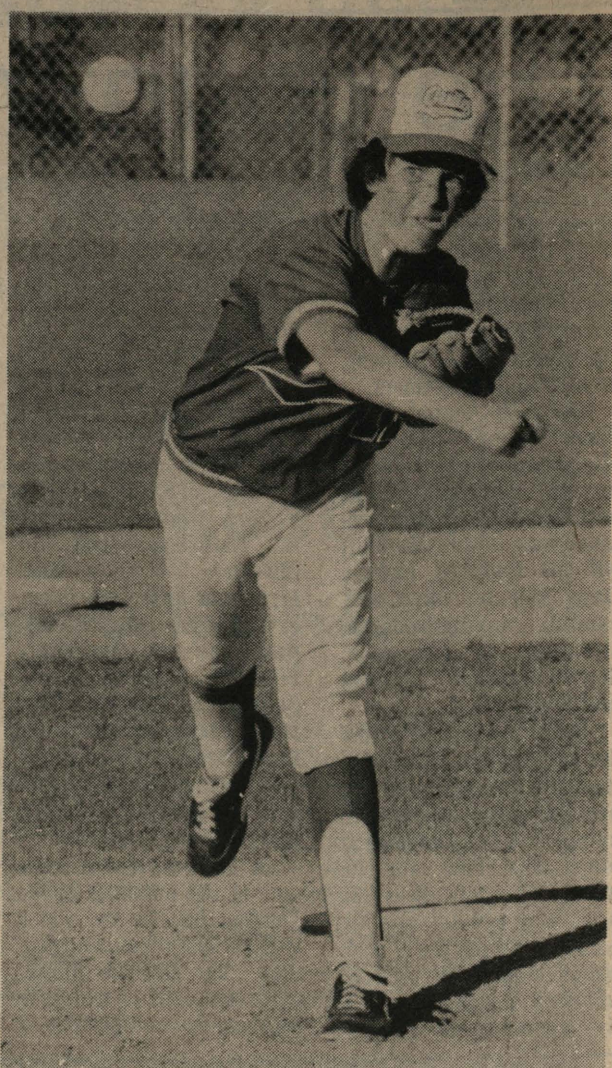

Root doubled and scored Quito's first run on a ground out in the third and Quito came right back with three in the fourth.

Three Cambrian errors and singles by Bacho and Bongiorno opened the doors for three Quito runs in the fourth frame.

CAMBRIAN CAME back with two runs in the bottom of the fourth to make it 4-2 but Quito put the game out of reach in the fifth.

Chavarria's triple, Bacho's double and singles by Larsen, Crawford and Chavarria were the key blows in Quito's eight run uprising.

Quito finished the three game tournament with a .307 team batting average, Bacho leading the club with a .555 mark. Crawford hit .444, Bongiorno .428, Chavarria .375, Mitchell .333, Larsen .300 and Root .285 for Quito in the tourney.

BEARING DOWN — Quito Little League all-star pitcher Bruce Mitchell bears down as he delivers a pitch in the District 12 tournament semi-final game against Los Gatos. Colt all-stars run out of gas in region finals

THE CAMPBELL MORELAND Colt League all-star team ran out of gas Sunday.

After winning five games in as many days to fight their way into the championship game of the regional tournament at Santa Clara's Washington Park, the Colts were shackled by Santa Clara's Rich Saavedra as the hosts coasted to a 3-0 victory.

It was the fourth straight year that Santa Clara and Campbell met in the finals of the tournament — and the fourth straight year of frustration for Campbell.

The climactic setback was especially hard to take after CM fought its way through the losers bracket of the eight team, double elimination tourney.

Campbell forced the winner-take-all finale by edging previously unbeaten Santa Clara 3-2 in 10 innings Saturday on Tim Fleury's bases loaded single.

Greg Takaki walked with two out to start the winning rally, stole second and moved to third on a wild pitch. After Chris Johnson drew a walk Joe Jones was intentionally passed to get to Fleury — a move that backfired when the CM centerfielder drilled a bullet to right-center, well over the outfielder's head.

CAMPBELL DENTED THE scoreboard first in the third. Jeff Melrose beat out a chopper to second and moved up a notch when the second baseman threw the ball away. He then swiped third and scored on Takaki's single.

After Santa Clara equalized with a run in the fourth, a walk to Fleury, two balks and Brian Raust's sacrifice fly gave CM a 2-1 bulge, which Santa Clara eliminated with a tally in the sixth.

Dean Bacho almost turned the lights out in the bottom of the seventh with a rocket that came within a foot or so of departing the spacious park, hitting the top of the outfield fence. He had to settle for a double and his pinch-runner was nailed trying to advance on an infield roller.

Melrose toiled the first seven innings on the mound before giving way to eventual winner Rick Farrell, who surrendered just one hit in his three frames of work and struck out four.

Bacho poked two of CM's five hits and shortstop Takaki and third baseman Vince Ginestra both bailed the locals out of jams with clutch defensive plays.

ON FRIDAY, THE Colts found themselves on the brink of elimination, trailing San Francisco 4-1 after four innings.

But the long-slumbering CM bats came to life at that point, as Campbell chalked up four runs in the fifth and five more in the sixth for a 10-4 triumph.

Jones was three for three at the plate with three runs scored and two doubles and Johnson also had two hits. Jones limited San Francisco to four hits.

Fleury was untouchable on the mound Thursday, powering CM to a 3-0 success against Almaden with a three-hitter.

On Wednesday, CM pulled off a last-ditch comeback against Los Gatos for a 4-3 hair-raiser.

The Campbellites trailed 2-0 entering the seventh but Raust and Dave Erkman singled to ignite the surge. Jones then tapped a comebacker that might have been turned into a double play — but the Los Gatos hurler threw wildly to third, scoring two runs and leaving Jones on third.

John Walsh then laid down a squeeze bunt to bring Jones in and was safe at first on the late throw to the plate. Melrose then doubled him in for the final run.

Farrell, who survived a rocky start, found himself in trouble in the bottom of the seventh but Jones came on to get the final batter on a grounder to Takaki and preserve the win.

Campbell LL season ends with whimper

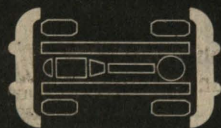

THE CAMPBELL LITTLE League baseball season ended with a whimper, not a bang, this past week.

Not only were the Campbell Little League major division all-stars eliminated in the District 44 national finals, but last Monday evening Willow Glen Optimists, representing the Campbell Little League in the District 44 Tournament of Champions, were ousted from title contention.

Tri-City, despite managing just two hits off of Willow Glen hurlers Brian Bertolin and Larry Miranda, ended Willow Glen's TOC hopes with a 4-2 victory.

Eric Miller knocked in one of Willow Glen's with a single. The other scored on a wild pitch.

Only two days earlier, Campbell Little League's all-star squad was beaten 4-0 by Cupertino National in the District 44 national finals.

West Valley 'stars win

By ANNE BRENNAN

THE WEST VALLEY Bobby Sox major all-stars totally dominated the San Lorenzo all-star tournament, outscoring their opponents 51-4 while posting two shut-outs.

West Valley clinched the championship title with a 6-0 victory over Newark. Julie Ranheim hurled the win, fanning seven and walking one.

Carrie Vaianisi smacked a pair of doubles in four tries and Lisa Ferante went two for four.

Ferrante was the tournament's leading hitter going seven for 11 for a .636 average. Donna Hanson was second to Ferrante going eight for 13 for a .615 average.

West Valley's road to the title started with a 17-0 win over Hayward. Vaianisi pitched a no-hitter facing 16 batters in five innings of play. Vaianisi whiffed 10 and walked three.

Hanson was two for two with a pair of doubles and Jill Vanderbosch went two for three.

IN OTHER FIRST round games, Pleasanton defeated De Anza 6-3 and North Livermore outlasted Foothill 5-3. Newark edged San Lorenzo 1-0.

Pleasanton became West Valley's third round victim as they suffered through a 13-2 rout. Ranheim who struck out seven and walked five, picked up the win.

Vaianisi went two for four including a double. In other action that day Newark whipped North Livermore 17-4 and De Anza dominated Hayward 11-6. Foothill outscored San Lorenzo 8-5.

Moreland wins 'star crown

By ANNE BRENNAN

WHEN A TEAM is down it can either fall apart or bounce back and try its best.

Moreland Bobby Sox major All-Stars decided they weren't going to fall apart after losing to Campbell 3-2 in the first round of the double elimination major all-star tournament which was held in Campbell. And they took that attitude all the way to the championship doubleheader against Ponderosa, who had remained undefeated throughout the tournament.

With 8-2 and 5-2 victories Moreland was able to claim the title.

Vicki Herron picked up the win in the first game of the championship twinbill. She also went two for four with a pair of doubles.

In the second game, it was Tammy Joslin, who pitched a no-hitter against South Palo Alto in an early round to win 14-3, that was credited with the win.

THE SCORE was tied 2-2 at the end of seven innings when Moreland came on to score three runs in the top of the eighth. Moreland then held Ponderosa in the bottom of the frame to earn the championship title.

Joslin belted a double in that game. Milpitas, with early losses of 12-3 to Ponderosa and 14-5 to Salinas, and Blossom Ridge, with losses of 4-2 to Salinas and 10-2 to Ponderosa, were eliminated in the second round of action.

In other games Saturday, Blossom Valley outlasted Cupertino 7-3. Kris Venable was credited with the win and Heidi Nunes was tagged with the loss.

Rocky Whitehair and Sheri Castagne both went two for four and Lisa Sims slapped a double for Blossom Valley.

ON SUNDAY, Cheryl Machado pitched a shut-out against Campbell to give Blossom Valley a 7-0 decision. Kahleen Stannard and Whitehair went two for four and Castagne was two for three.

Cupertino whitewashed South Palo Alto 16-0 later that day.

Moreland got back on the winning track Monday when they demolished Salinas 7-1.

Moreland had to come from behind to do it though, and down 1-0, Karen Spencer stepped to the plate and cracked a grand slam to put Moreland ahead, a position they were to be in the rest of the tournament.

Moreland, in the second of three doubleheaders they played in the tournament, defeated Campbell 1-0.

Herron tossed the win and Guenther was tagged with the loss.

WITH TWO OUT and two on in the bottom of the seventh Campbell threatened to end all hope of a Moreland victory but Herron hung in tough and forced the next batter to pop out.

Tammy Piekarski drove in the winning run for Moreland.

Ponderosa handed Blossom Valley their first loss with a 4-3 victory.

Mary Bautista picked up the victory and Venable suffered the loss.

Stannard was three for four and Whitehair went two for four. Castagne ripped a double.

On Tuesday, Blossom Valley whipped Cupertino 8-3. Castagne tossed the win.

Whitehair was three for five and Andy Esquevel went two for two. Cindy Meek was three for four including a pair of doubles.

Moreland then came up with a 7-0 shut-out victory over Blossom Valley to disqualify them from further action.

Joslin notched the mound win and Machado absorbed the loss.

Joslin was one for three and Piekarski went two for four to help in the Moreland victory and move in to the championship bracket.

Los Gatos squeezes past Pony 'stars

"THEIR SQUEEZE worked. Ours didn't."

That's the way manager Bill Walsh summed up the Campbell Moreland Pony League "B" all-star team's 4-3 loss to host Los Gatos in the finals of the District 3 tournament Sunday.

Indeed, LG's success on the squeeze compared to CM's inability to pull it off was the only difference between the two teams that day — but it resulted in the locals' second one-run setback to Los Gatos in as many days and relegated them to second-place status.

With the score tied at 3-3 in the bottom of the sixth and a runner on third, Walsh ordered the squeeze. But Los Gatos pitched out and easily wiped out the onrushing baserunner.

Los Gatos then proceeded to squeeze in the go-ahead run in the top of the seventh with the bases loaded.

Campbell Moreland advanced Steve Koontz as far as third in its half of the seventh but couldn't cash him in.

Mike Reilly whacked two hits and Tom Gricius tagged his second home run of the tournament to pace the Campbell Moreland attack. Gricius took the mound loss after coming on for Joray Marrujo in the fifth.

Against Los Gatos the previous day, the Campbell club suffered another 4-3 defeat partly as the result of a bizarre play that caused a 25-minute delay while the umpires sifted through the wreckage.

TRAILING 4-0 entering the sixth, CM scored once and had the bases loaded with nobody out and Todd Phillips at bat. Phillips lifted a pop-up just behind second and the umpire invoked the infield fly rule.

But the ball dropped in front of the centerfielder and neither Phillips or Gricius on first heard the infield fly rule called. As a result, both kept moving while Jerry Zaro was held at second.

In the ensuing confusion, both Phillips and Gricius slid into second at the same time, with Zaro a few feet away. Zaro eventually made it to third and Gricius remained on second.

Initially, the umpires ruled all three runners out but after the lengthy conference Gricius was declared out and Zaro returned to third with the score 4-2.

Joray Marrujo singled Zaro in but that was all CM could muster.

Campbell earned a return shot at Los Gatos later Saturday by defeating San Francisco 4-1. Brad Ceynowa and John Heidemann teamed for a four-hitter and Zaro crashed two doubles.

SMS Barons claim co-ed crown

THE SMS Barons, first half champions of Campbell's co-ed softball league, captured the overall Summer league title last week by defeating second half champion Custom Floors by Dowdy 8-2 in a special play-off game.

Barons pitcher Jerry Ruggiero was the star of the game, allowing just seven hits and striking out two in addition to helping himself at the plate with a double and two singles.

Teammate, Rich Sanchez also had a big night, collecting a triple and two singles in three trips to the plate. Randy Armer chipped in with a triple for the winners.

Barons shortstop Sue Dodge dazzled Custom Floors defensively, having a hand in nine of the 21 outs recorded.

A Campbell tribute

Local composer pens the 'Mayor's Rhyme'

By VICKI JOHNSEN

BECAUSE FRED Tosky thinks Campbell is one of the "nicest American cities" he has known, last May he composed a special anthem for it titled "The Mayor's Rhyme."

With a tune that resembles a church hymn, the anthem's lyrics speak of the many joys the mayor experiences being a leader of Campbell.

Recently, Tosky presented an acapella solo of his tribute to the Campbell Civic Improvement Commission. That group plans to discuss the question of a city anthem CAMPBELL anthem composer, Fred H. Tosky, displays his finished copy of "The Mayor's Rhyme." Tosky, who wrote the piece because "all good cities should be recognized," began the anthem in April and completed it May 14.

SULLIVAN NAMED CHIEF PSYCHOLOGIST

Jane K. Sullivan was recently appointed Assistant Administrator and Chief Psychologist of Beacon Day School.

Sullivan has worked for the past eight years in the Santa Clara Valley as a school psychologist and psychological consultant to a number of school districts.

She will be responsible for coordinating the school program, with respect to selection and enrollment of students, as well as establishing a behavioral management program for the school.

Jane K. Sullivan

at a future study session.

Tosky, 26, 3495 S. Bascom ave., has lived in Campbell for the past three years.

"When I came here I found the people more friendly than those in other cities I have lived in. I decided that a town like this should have a song depicting its virtue," Tosky said.

THE MAYOR'S Rhyme, a tune combining melody, harmony, and rhythm, according to Tosky, requires soprano, alto, tenor, and bass singers, as well as a brass quartet. It begins:

Campbell a great city
A place he calls a home,
Campbell a fair city
A place he freely roams.
Campbell a great city
A place he helps to grow,
He speaks for the many
The friends he all does know.

After completing his anthem, Tosky submitted it to the Campbell School District in hopes that they could get trained soprano, alto, tenor, and bass student singers to learn it and present it at end-of-the-year school festivities.

Since it was so close to the school year's close, the board told Tosky he would have to resubmit it in the fall.

Tosky next visited the city manager and the Civic Improvement Commission and presented it there.

Tosky has been seriously studying music for the last eight years. He plays viola, piano, flute, and guitar and has gone to Foothill College and San Jose State University.

MOST OF Tosky's songs are pieces written for young people, he explained. "The songs I write are expressions of the desires youngsters have," Tosky said. "Most of them are love songs."

Four of Tosky's unrecorded tunes are "I Wish My Love," "A Dove's Song," "You Are The Girl," and "We Could Proclaim."

Tosky also teaches piano.

According to Tosky, not all cities should have an anthem. "It is impossible to write a serious piece of music depicting some cities because they are not serious about their future," Tosky said. He used Los Gatos as an example of one of those cities.

"Campbell is one that needs an anthem because it is one that is definitely trying to make its future better," he declared.

Applicants sought for planning commission

Applications are being taken now for an opening on the Campbell Planning Commission, after city councilmen failed to reach a decision on four previous applicants at the last council session. Those four will be interviewed along with other hopefuls before the council makes their decision in September.

The vacancy was created when Commissioner Don Hebard, whose second four-year term expired in August, did not seek reappointment.

Planning commissioners must reside within the city limits and be able to attend regular and special meetings of the commission.

Forms are available at the City Clerk's office, 75 N. Central ave. and deadline for applying is September 1. For more information call the City Manager's office at 378-8141 weekdays.

The commission advises the city council on planning matters, including zone changes, master plans, subdivision maps and planned developments. It also may give site approvals and issue use permits and variances without ratification by the city council. Any decision of the commission however, can be appealed to the council.

LIBRARY services are one of the main interests of Joycelyn (Joy) Maguire, newest member of the Campbell Civic Improvement Commission. Maguire, a marketing manager for the Pacific Telephone headquarters staff in San Francisco, was appointed recently by the City Council from among several "very qualified" applicants. She and her two daughters make their home on Latimer circle in Campbell.

Winning phone line keeps local couple losing...sleep

Imagine yourself dreaming peacefully when the phone rings and an excited voice asks quickly, "Did I win?"

For Mark and Lilian Weber, a retired Campbell couple, this uncommon occurrence is unfortunately, not so uncommon.

Their telephone number happens to be only two digits from the KSFO radio station number and, according to Lilian, calls for the station have been coming in at all hours every day for the last month.

Lillian added the couple get more calls for the station than they do for themselves.

"Most of the time," she said, "children call and ask for baseball tickets. But we do get a lot of calls from older people asking for other tickets or for the station itself."

Lillian noted calls come at the worst times, "when I'm in the shower, way out in the backyard, very late at night, or very early in the morning."

The San Francisco-based radio station said Monday they'll do what they can to help.

"Maybe we can get the disc jockeys to ask people to dial carefully," said Ivy Winzel, operations assistant.

Meantime... the Webers of Campbell are not giving free record albums away or tickets to the Giants games either.

Street change for downtown under discussion tonight

Two-way traffic in downtown Campbell? That is one idea that comes up for discussion tonight as the Task Force '78 committee meets at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Campbell library, 70 N. Central ave.

The Chamber of Commerce-sponsored group will be meeting with city representatives, downtown property owners and any interested citizen to discuss "street patterns on Campbell avenue," according to Chairman Vern Lamar.

Several downtown property owners have suggested the stretch of Campbell avenue, between Third street and Railway, be changed back to two-way. It presently carries east bound traffic.

Another suggestion that will be discussed tonight is the possibility of reopening Central avenue at Civic Center drive (the north loop street).

Lamar said the meeting will also include a slide presentation showing what other cities have done to improve their old downtown areas.

For information about the meeting or the Chamber group call 378-6252.

Theater festival coming

An 'Olympics of the arts'

By BARBARA CARPENTER

CONSUELO Santos Killins has two recurring nightmares.

In the first, she throws a huge international party and no one comes. In the second everyone does.

Killins is executive director of the Pacific Peoples Theatre Festival, biggest international bash the West has had since the UN conference in San Francisco 33 years ago. Between Aug. 18 and 28, artists from 30 UN member nations and their U.S. counterparts will be converging on San Jose for ten days of theater, dance, mime, puppetry, circus, folk arts, fine arts, seminars and workshops.

Officially, the occasion is the first gun salute of the International Year of the Child. Festival backers hope it is also the first of many annual theater arts festivals involving people of the vast Pacific rim region.

Throughout the 10 days every available facility in San Jose's still somewhat unraveled downtown area will be called into use. Because of the short notice — a year ago PPTF was still a twinkle in the eye of the CAC's Luis Valdez — the city's prime performing spaces were either pre-booked or slated for August repairs. Undismayed, Killins, a titian-haired Texas with the profile of a Toltec figurine, reserved halls, auditoriums, schools, churches, galleries, parks, playgrounds, paseos — anything she could get — to accommodate the influx of international, national and local talent.

FOR POST-Proposition 13 Californians, the festival is a spectacular cultural bargain. Over a hundred events are programmed between 10 a.m. and 11 p.m. daily, all of them open to the public, all of them free of charge. These include such exotic rarities as Papua New Guinea's Theater Raun Raun, sponsored by Dr. Margaret Mead (a member of the PPTF Advisory Board) and the Museum of Natural History; a children's Yakshagana troupe from Bangalore, India; the Mwe-kasa Dancers and Musicians from Zambia; and Mexico's Mascarones de Cuernavaca.

Sharing the stage of the San Jose Center for the Performing Arts with Governor Jerry Brown and assorted celebrities and international dignitaries at the official opening ceremonies Aug. 19 will be 35 members of the Korean National Folk Art Company and 50 Samoans (half of them children), members of the Folk Art Chorale of that island.

Also sending representatives are Argentina, Canada, Chile, Colombia, the Congo, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Ghana, Guam, Indonesia, Iraq, Japan, Jordan, Kenya, Kuwait, the Marianas, New Zealand, Nigeria, Peru, the Philippines, South Africa, Thailand, Trinidad and Tobago. The Peoples Republic of China and the U.S.S.R. have not said definitely that they will not be there.

Performing with the foreign troupes will be between two and three dozen West Coast companies. From Haines, Alaska are coming the ChilKat Dancers, and from Seattle, the Red Earth Performing Arts Company. In addition to six theater touring companies subsidized by the California Arts Council — San Diego Repertory Theater, Dell'Arte Players, Oakland Ensemble, the Inner City Cultural Center, Bear Republic and the San Francisco Mime Troupe — such acclaimed ensembles as the Los Angeles Mask Theatre and El Teatro Campesino (just home from its third European tour) will be performing.

trict in San Jose and Hank Rosendin, a staff member of the fine Arts Commission who assured them that San Jose would welcome the festival and provide the necessary support. While other locales — including the handsome UC Santa Cruz campus and Concord (which offered around the world.

OVER THE months of preparation Killins hammered out a philosophical base for the festival which reflects both her fanatical dedication to the arts (she is a frequent arts advocate in Sacramento and

A DANCE AND DRAMA group from Papuan, New Guinea will participate in the Pacific Peoples Theater Festival Aug. 18-28 in San Jose.

For youngsters — and Killins wants no one to forget that the festival was organized on behalf of the world's children — there will be such attractions as Make-a-Circus, Magic Carpet Play Company, story theater, puppet shows and the display of no less than 10,000 works of art by their peers in Colombia.

THE HOPED-FOR hordes who attend with their parents will not only be amply entertained but properly represented with an all-kids press conference scheduled at the opening. If Killins has her way, the ten days will also include such light-hearted capers as a Skateboard Dance Contest — "It's incredibly graceful!"

But PPTF will be more than a cross-generational mardi gras. Artists and specialists in a wide spectrum of children's concerns will cover enough scholarly ground to fill the pages of a projected International Year of the Child Conference book. Documentation is also forthcoming from CBS which is producing a one-hour special on the children's participation.

A major theater arts festival on the Pacific shores might still be but a fond dream of half a dozen California theater directors had not one of them — El Teatro Campesino's Luis Valdez — run into his old friend Cecile Guidote last summer in New York.

"Why not an international theatre festival in California as kick-off event for the International Year of the Child?" suggested Guidote, a veteran organizer of similar festivals in Bucharest, Vancouver and Mexico City.

Valdez took the proposal home to California and presented it to colleagues and fellow CAC members. They were all intrigued and a meeting with Guidote was arranged shortly thereafter in San Francisco. Invited were Robert Frost of the Evergreen Community College Disa $50,000 initial subsidy) — were considered, San Jose was chosen because of its racial balance and ethnic diversity. 15% — perhaps as much as 20% — of its population is Chicano. There are also large Filipino, Japanese, Samoan, Latino, Native American and other minority communities.

GUIDOTE agreed to take on the job of Project Director at the New York end after the CAC unanimously voted on July 29 to endorse a Pacific Peoples Theater Festival in August, 1978 and awarded a $23,000 grant to get the operation underway. Working from a tiny, cluttered office on the fifth floor of the La Mama Theater, where she was also Program Director of the Third World Institute of Theater Arts Studies (TWITAS), she began the arduous process of inviting every "Blue Book" nation, as required by UN protocol.

This required reams of correspondence — long, detailed sensitively composed letters, each beamed to a particular political bias but always stressing the apolitical nature of the event. The initial letters were followed up with personal calls, cables, embassy visits, more correspondence. It is a process, Guidote wearily points out, which can go on until the very eve of an international festival.

Meanwhile, back in San Jose a special committee was interviewing for the position of festival director. Killins, a member of the Art Commission and a one-time psychiatric nurse with a master's degree in contemporary poetry, was chosen over a field of 14 contenders for the job.

Working at opposite ends of the country, sometimes literally around the clock, the two women kept in constant telephone contact. There were discouragements and setbacks. "It was a lonely, frustrating time," Killins says. "But when she called an international press conference at the San Jose Museum of Art March 28, she was able to announce the participation of troupes from two dozen countries from a tireless worker at home) and her deep-seated egalitarian outlook. For the August event in San Jose, she envisions "an olympics of the arts" — a "series of arts experiences which would pass on the core of past heritage, give a sense of roots, and reinforce the common humanity we all share.

"What we're trying to do," she says, "is provide quality performances to a wide audience and to make them accessible — especially to those who have previously not had access." She hopes that the excitement which is stirring in San Jose about the festival will ripple outward and that families in the small towns and hamlets of California as well as the big cities will hear about it and come.

Given her druthers, she'll take the second nightmare anytime.

CONSUELO Santos Killins, director of the Pacific Peoples Theater Festival, is helping to roll out the red carpet for artists from 30 UN member nations converging on the Bay Area Aug. 18-28.

Conflict hides in shadows for Ari

Aug. 5 through Aug. 11

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Conflict hides in the shadows, Ari, so be on guard. Recall Boy Scout motto concerning preparation. One does so hate to be the bearer of bad tidings, but "knowledge is power" and all that jazz. Stick to familiar turf. You out-fox adversary and end week with a giggle.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Situation arises demanding immediate action. There will be no time for hesitation, vacillation, meditation or cogitation. Just action. Instinct will tell you what to do, Taurus. Thank heaven for instinct. Week ends with a promise.

GEMINI (May 21-July 22): Hunches are strong. Take step toward long-range goal, but remember to exercise moderation. Even Las Vegas wasn't built in a day, you know. Ultimatum is issued. If the shoe fits — jog.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Follow hunches. If associate is unduly critical, tell him/her to go jump in the ocean. With a little luck Jaws III will take care of this aggravation. Week of surprises ends with a splash, and a squeal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Current plan has basic weakness, Leo, and you know very well what it is. However, in order to make change you must first admit that you are not infallible. That's the hard part. The easy part is to follow through with alteration. Study Virgo message.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Concerning personal plans, Virgo, you needn't give a fig for what others think. Do what is best for you. Relationship intensifies and your fragile ego gets a much needed boost. Leo pussyfoots into your life. Hot tuna!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Lots of activity — both social and business. Contacts made now prove beneficial later in year. Love tiptoes into your life and contradictions dissolve and disappear. Lucky Libra!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Change highlighted. After a good deal of ranting and raving, however, tension subsides. Intuition keen this week, Scorp, so listen to that tiny voice within. You know, the one which begs you to behave. Clue in words to Gem. Week ends on dramatic note.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Possibilities are unlimited this week, Sag. Move with authority. Career/personal affairs (?) highlighted. Leo enters the picture. As busy week ends, do a fast fade and relax with a tiny toot.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): No one pats you on the back this week, but then, no one spits in your eye either — so it all evens out. You've been on the edge of the wedge lately, Cap, and you need a change of scenery. Plan getaway.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't dissipate energy by darting about aimlessly, Aquarius. Instead, zero in on secret plan. If delays occur, try not to fuss or fidget. On last day Cupid takes aim, so stand very still.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Life goes in only one direction, Pisces, and that is forward. Don't waste these beautiful summer days thinking of "what might have been." Joy is at hand — today, but you must reach out.

Put that suspicious odometer to the test

Send all mail for this column to P.O. Box 311, Palo Alto, Ca. 94302, or call 494-1858 for consumer advice.

The used car I bought ('69 Chevy) with 63,000 miles on the odometer is an absolute junker. The dealer I bought it from now says, "that's tough" and explained the fact that it was an "as is" sale. This means I have purchased the car and have accepted any problems or mechanical flaws that came with it.

I found a lubrication sticker under the hood (all the others have been torn off) that indicates that the car had 96,000 miles on the odometer. I pointed this out to the dealer and he tried to tear off the sticker. I slammed the hood down and left with him screaming obscenities at me. Do I have any recourse with the dealer because of the altered mileage on this car?

Martha Wong,
Mountain View

Verify the possible altered odometer by getting a 443 form from a D.M.V. office, filling it out and sending it to Sacramento. This, if you specify, will get you a complete history check on your car including odometer readings at past times of sale. There is a minor fee for this service. The penalty for altering an odometer is clearly stated in the law with a $1,500 penalty being assessed the dealer.

We recommend that anyone that has purchased a used car from any dealer go through this procedure.

We also advise not buying any used car on an "as is" basis. If you can't get a clear warranty or if the maintenance and lubrication records have been removed from the vehicle, be very suspicious. This is an overt indication that the dealer is hiding something from the potential buyer. Ask him why the records don't exist — the answers will be amusing. Get all of his promises and statements in writing on the contract of sale.

I bought what was advertised as a "solid brass" antique bed for the sum of $580. When it was delivered, it got scratched and I find that the bed is brass-plated steel with a lacquer coating. A little searching turned up the fact that the bed was made in 1973, hardly an antique, and its current sale value is about $55. I've called the dealer about this and he says, "Sue me." What can I do to get my money back?

Mary Pierce Irvin,
Santa Clara

The dealer was right; sue him in the small claims court. All you need is your sales receipt and a copy of his advertisement. You are entitled to the purchase price, delivery charges and the tax on the sale plus your court filing and service fees.

Send a stamped, self-addressed legal size envelope and 50¢ to Consumers United, P.O. Box 311, Palo Alto, CA 94302 for (specify) our small claims court publication. The 50¢ covers our printing costs. The small claims courts are a rapid, fun and inexpensive forum for the resolution of claims. You will be astounded at how easy the entire process is.

I've invested in the Ni-Cad rechargeable batteries and the plug-in chargers for my photo gear, flashlights and calculators. The advertising reads that the batteries can be recharged "up to 1000 times" but they are failing to hold a charge for any reasonable time after the 7th or 8th charge.

These batteries are super expensive and I feel that I'm not getting my money's worth.

Sonia Willbeck
Palo Alto

"Up to 1000 times" can mean from two to 999 in the obfuscating parlance of the advertising copywriter. Contact the zone representative of the manufacturer with your problem which is not an uncommon one. If you get no response, give us a call and we'll rattle their cage.

Penny pinchers

By SHIRLEY TALLMAN

Dear Shirley,
My question is concerning the new fad with frozen yogurt. I have always heard that the main benefit of eating yogurt was the bacteria in it. Is the bacteria killed in the freezing process? Somehow the additional processing involved in the freezing seems as if it must have some kind of adverse nutritional effect. Are there any?

Joanne Shearer,
Los Altos

According to the Department of Agriculture's home economist, there is no evidence that the bacteria in yogurt is killed or even damaged when it is frozen. It is just "suspended" or held at the point it was at prior to freezing. After all, you can freeze yeast without damaging the bacteria content.

However, the home economist was doubtful about bacteria being the main benefit when eating yogurt. She said that to her knowledge there were no tests that conclusively proved this to be true. This claim seems to be part of the controversy surrounding the modern day

"yogurt mystique."

Some of the more "far out" yogurt claims are that it will help you live longer, lower blood-cholesterol levels and help with the digestion. These assertions are largely unproven.

The claim that yogurt is nutritious, though, is true.

It is about as nutritious as the milk from which it is made. It is also generally low in calories as long as it's not loaded with fruit and sugar.

The claim that yogurt is pure and natural doesn't hold up too well. Only a few commercial brands on the market are really "pure," or contain no additives of any kind. Many include ingredients such as gelatin, modified food starch, potassium sorbate and artificial flavors and colors. Actually, none of these additives are harmful, they're just not natural to yogurt.

Now, before I'm besieged with irate letters from yogurt lovers, please understand I'm one of you. I love the stuff. Only I do believe in being objective about some of the wilder claims laid at its doorstep.

Some purely wild yogurt tales
